EAST SIDE RIOT GROWS OUT OF RUN ON PRIVATE BANKS

Reserves Called to Handle Cursing Men and Weeping Women.

State Superintendent of Banks Richards, at 10 o'clock to-day, ordered the closing of the private bank of Max Kobre, at No. 41 Canal street, with branches at No. 81 Grand street, Williamsburg, and No. 173 Pitkin avenue, Brownsville, Brooklyn. This is the third private bank closed on the East Side this week. Kobre's bank has deposits of $3,800,000.

Bank Examiner George B. McLaughlin was appointed special deputy to take charge of the Kobre concern. The bank had opened for business when he reached there, and a long line of depositors was pushing toward the paying teller's window.

Directly across the street from Kobre's bank is the private bank of S. Jarmulowski. The Jarmulowski building was packed with depositors trying to get their money and a crowd of 1,000 stormed the doors. Mr. McLaughlin, before closing the Kobre bank, requested a policeman to send to the Eldridge street station for the reserves.

The arrival of the policemen precipitated a riot. More reserves were called from the Delancey street station. Canal street between Orchard and Ludlow streets was soon jammed with cursing men and weeping women. Lines of patrolmen were formed in front of Kobre's bank, while other officers went inside and hurried the frantic depositors into the street.

So many of Jarmulowski's depositors had crowded into the banking room that the partitions were in danger of being swept away. The doors were closed against those inside, and this increased the disorder.

As the Jarmulowski depositors were paid off they were let out one at a time through a side door. The Kobre bank depositors, seeing their own bank closed and Jarmulowski paying off, charged time and again on the Kobre's doors and windows. Only the strong police guard kept the mob from wrecking the place.

The war run had but an indirect effect in the closing of the Kobre bank and the two other banks closed yesterday. Gov. Glynn three months ago ordered an examination of all private banks in the State. That examination has shown that many private concerns are in a weak condition due to bad investments.

"Probably we should have closed this Kobre bank had there been no war scare," said Supt. Richards after he had issued the order. "The concern is in an unsafe condition and could not weather a run. By careful conservation of the assets we hope to protect the interests of the depositors."

"Yesterday evening, after banking hours, we closed the private banks of M. & L. Jarmulowski, at No. 165 East Broadway, and of Adolf Man-del, at No. 155 Rivington street. They are now in the hands of the Banking Department.

"I feel that we have now eliminated the principal weak points in the private banking situation. But if the depositors in other institutions on the East Side continue to besiege their bankers for money we may be forced to further action. At any rate, we have the situation well in hand, and from now on can look after the interests of all depositors in institutions under our jurisdiction to the extent of all reasonable demands."

"Timid depositors are still clamoring for money from the savings banks, but there is no danger in that quarter. The action of the savings banks in paying something to all who apply has had a reassuring effect. There never was a time when the banks of New York were in such good shape. Runs on banks because of the war in Europe are senseless and the depositors are hurting themselves by their precipitate action."

News of the closing of the Kobre bank spread through the East Side and started runs on all private banks and savings banks. Superintendent Richards said he was keeping a close eye on three other private banks, but would not close them unless they were subjected to an unusual strain. These three banks have assets enough to protect the depositors, but their resources would be seriously affected by a continuous run.

HOW RESINOL CURED ITCHING SKIN TORMENT

"My limbs from knee to ankle were completely covered with excema for a year. It commenced with several small water pimples, which burst when I scratched them, until they developed into sores, and oozed a yellowish fluid. I hated to go in company, it itched and burned so badly. I had no rest at night. I tried a good many remedies for excema, both liquid and salve, but they did me no good, only made the skin more rough and scaly. I learned of Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap and tried them, and was relieved of the severe itching and burning AT ONCE, and after a month's steady use was completely cured." (Signed) T. S. Lewis, 1821 Summit St., Baltimore, Md.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are sold by all druggists. For free trial, write to Resinol, Dept. 86-R, Baltimore, Md.
